

Dual Enrollment

Dual Enrollment is part of a broader high school reform effort, called “Project 720,” that Governor Rendell initiated in 2005. Project 720, named for the number of days a student spends in high school from the beginning of 9th grade through the end of 12th grade, focuses on providing students with a more rigorous high school curriculum and enhancing their access to opportunities for postsecondary education.

The University of Scranton, through our High School Scholars Program, maintains Dual Enrollment Agreements with the following high schools:

Dunmore High School

Forest City High School

Lakeland High School

Mountain View High School

Old Forge High School

Riverside High School

Scranton High School

Valley View High School

Funding criteria is determined by the high school and can include full or partial coverage of the tuition and fees for High School Scholars.
