

ABOUT THE MAJOR

Health Administration at Scranton blends coursework from health and business disciplines to prepare students for leadership roles across healthcare settings. The interdisciplinary curriculum includes a built-in business administration minor, equipping graduates with the management skills needed to thrive in hospitals, nonprofits, government agencies, and beyond.

OUTCOMES & OPPORTUNITIES

- The Health Administration major emphasizes hands-on learning through a required 120-hour internship, with the option for a second elective internship. Students also complete 10 hours of community service each semester.
- The curriculum equips students with a broad foundation for entry-level roles in hospitals, insurance and managed care companies, pharmaceutical firms, and community health organizations. It also prepares graduates for advanced study in fields like public health, health policy, gerontology, law, and business administration.
- Scranton offers an accelerated Master of Health Administration (MHA) program for qualified undergraduate Health Administration students, allowing them to earn both degrees in less time.
